

KARYOTYPE

Conventional karyotyping was performed. It was normal (46,XY(20)). There is no evidence of any structural or numerical abnormality in any of the metaphases studied.

